HOW HE RODE FREE.

HE BEAT AN EASTERN RAILWAY OUT

OF $20.

Conductors Were Deceived by Him For

More Than a Year—A Simple Scheme

Which Required Only Nerve and Self

Control—Trials of Conductors.

There is a well settled belief on the part of most people that the conductors on the steam railroads have an intuitive knowledge of the persons who have not paid their fares, and that, while they may occasionally pass a man without taking up his ticket, so phenomenal is the memory of the average conductor and so well does he remember faces that it is almost impossible to deceive him. While this may sometimes be true, as a rule it is the passenger himself who gives the cue for the conductor's action. The man who deliberately attempts to evade the payment of a fare in nine cases out of ten will by his looks and action say to the conductor, "I have not paid my fare, and I don't intend to." Some conductors with short memories and distrust of their abilities for detecting the frauds will continuously call out the word "tickets" as they pass through the cars, where many changes are taking place between stations, at the same time extending their hand to ward each seat. The man who has not paid feels that this is a direct appeal made to himself and responds accordingly.

But if this ruse does not succeed in making the would be "beat" deliver up his ticket it so far changes his face and demeanor that he often shows conscious guilt, and his ticket is then peremptorily demanded.

It sometimes happens, however, that even all the tricks and artifices of the conductor will fail, and a man will succeed daily in evading payment of his fare, not merely for weeks, but for months. A remarkable case of this kind was recently observed on the Fitchburg railroad. For more than a year a man employed in one of the large wholesale houses in this city has been taking a train from one of the suburban stations, and acquaintances who rode on the same car were surprised to see that he never paid fare.

At first it was thought that he might have a pass, which the conductor, knowing him well, did not require him to show. But it was learned that he always paid his fare when coming from Boston, when the conductor is sure to demand a fare from every person on the train. Then came the suggestion that he had an understanding with the conductor of the train on which he rode when going to Boston. But it was found that when the conductor was changed to another train and a stranger took his place he also failed to collect fare from the man.

So for weeks the man was watched with much curiosity by the passengers who knew of his success and were curious to see how long it would continue.

They saw that he invariably got on the train on the left hand side, so that he could not be observed by the conductor, who stood on the station platform. As soon as he entered the car he took one of the many unoccupied seats next to the window and fast no time in becoming deeply absorbed in the contents of a morning paper. When the conductor came through the train to collect fares from the passengers who got in at this station, this man, instead of ignoring his presence, as most men similarly situated would have done, gave a rapid glance from his paper, looking the official squarely in the eye, and resumed his reading with just the suggestion of impatience at the interruption. The result of this was that, carrying with it a positive assurance that there was no disposition to evade anything, was so emphatic and pronounced that it left no doubt in the mind of the conductor, if he had any before, that the passenger had got on the train at another station and had paid his fare to Boston. There was something about the man's appearance as well as his actions that assisted in the keeping up of this deception. He bore all the evidence of a substantial, honest business man of middle age, and far above evading payment of a 5 cent fare. But it was singular that day after day a sharp and discriminating conductor should be so easily deceived, and apparently against his own convictions, for on several occasions he reached for a fare, but was checked in his advances by that re-proachful look with which he was confronted.

But the end came at last, on that train at least. Either the conductor's suspicions were so completely aroused that he determined to satisfy himself whether he was being imposed upon, or else some one had called his attention to the deceit practiced, for one morning he reached out his hand for the fare, but received only the swift and impatient glance. This did not satisfy him, for when the man returned to the parusal of his paper he was tapped on the shoulder and his fare demanded in no uncertain terms. A commutation ticket was re-fusedly produced, punched without comment and returned to the pocket where it was taken. The morning the passengers watched curiously for the next move in the game, but the man had evidently given up the contest on that train, for he has not been seen on it since. As he was known to have evaded paying fare on that train daily for more than a year, it was roughly estimated that the Fitchburg Railroad company was thus defrauded out of not less than

WILL SUPPORT THE SILVER TICKET.

The Elko Independent, which has been disposed to act wholly independent, has been looking over the political field and arrives at the conclusion that the only sensible course for the voters of Nevada to pursue is to support the Silver ticket. Referring to the multiplicity of candidates and platforms and the danger that the average voter may get confused, the Independent says:

In this multiplicity of candidates and platforms, there is danger that the average voter will become so mixed that he will not know where he is at when election day rolls round. All, however, should keep their attention firmly fixed on the main question and vote only for those candidates whose previous record in office and the platform upon which they stand give the greatest promise of carrying out the wishes of the people on the silver and other great questions that interest the people of Nevada.

The strength of the Populist party is confined to Washoe and Lincoln counties and along the line of the railroad while that of the two Democratic tickets consist principally of a few here and there who endorse the administration of President Cleveland.

As neither of these three tickets stands any show of success, it follows that a vote cast for either of them is merely thrown away. What then is the duty of those Democrats who do not endorse the administration and who believe it their duty to maintain an independent position in this contest? Surely they will not cast their vote for either the Populist or Administration tickets and by so doing give aid and comfort to their old enemy, the Republican party.

The only course then left for Democrats who do not believe the success of the Republican State ticket would be for the best interests of the State, and who do not endorse the Administration of President Cleveland, is to support the Silver party ticket. Holding these views, the Independent will fight under the banner of the Silver party during the present campaign.

It may be alleged, as it has been in other instances, in the interest of the Republican party, that the Independent is under railroad influences, but readers of the paper have very good reasons for believing that it is not. Every intelligent person in the State knows that railroad influences in Nevada have always been in favor of the Republican party. Every railroad official of importance in the State is now and has been in the past with the Republican party. Two years ago the railroad town of Wadsworth gave a larger Republican vote in proportion to the whole number of votes polled than any other place in Nevada. In the Republican State convention recently held here railroad influences were strong enough to defeat this resolution:

We demand that the United States, upon the failure of the bonded Pacific Railroad companies to pay their enormous indebtedness to the Government as it matures, immediately proceed to foreclose its lien upon their property.

As the Independent says, is not every vote cast for the Democratic and Populist parties in Nevada a vote in favor of the party which voted down the above resolution?

A FREE COINAGE PLANK BEATEN.

The Republican party of Nevada, with the accent on the name of the State, declares in its platform that the free coinage of silver is the supreme issue before the American people, and that the Republican party is in favor of silver. A Republican State Convention was held in the State of Washington yesterday and the telegraphic reports show how the Republican party of that State feel toward the "supreme issue." Did the party declare for free coinage, which Nevada Republicans say the party favors? Well, not to any great extent; in fact, not at all. A plank pledging the party to the free coinage of silver was defeated by a majority of thirty-seven in a State that should be unanimous for free silver. As the report of the convention in the press dispatches is not very full, it is probable that it injected "interconvertibility" in the monetary plank and told the members from the rural districts, who have to sell wheat at fifty cents a bushel, that it meant free coinage. The Committee on Resolutions of the National Convention of Republican Clubs at Denver, of which Hon. H. F. Burtine was a member, introduced the word for deceptive purposes and it is now doing active service in that line in Republican platforms.

THE COUNTY CONVENTION.

The People's party county convention yesterday was the largest body of the kind ever assembled in Washoe. There were only three or four proxies out of 101 delegates, and harmony prevailed throughout. There were no evidences of ring or boss rule and no "slate" had been prepared as has been the custom in county conventions. It was a convention of representatives of the people, fresh from the people and intent only on doing what they conceived to be their duty. The ticket as a whole is conceded to be a strong one. The candidates are representative men, who are engaged in various pursuits—artisans, farmers, professional and business men. Of the personnel of the ticket the JOURNAL will have more to say in the near future though many, if not all, of the nominees, are too well known to require an introduction to the people of the county.

Hon. Francis G. Newlands and Hon. Thomas Wren will open the campaign at Virginia City on the evening of the 26th. It is expected that the nominees of the State ticket of the Silver party will be in force and a rousing meeting will be held.

DEMOCRATS AT MERCED.

Suit Brought Against a Practical Joker.

Fast Horses Make Records.

GALESBURG, Ill., September 20.—Monroe Salisbury's two-year-old pacer directly sent the two-year-old record down from 2:09 to 2:07 3/4, and reduced his own record of 2 1/2 seconds. There were 20,000 spectators. McDowell drove. Directly. The pace was remarkable, showing steady improvement. The first quarter was in 1:32, half in 1:04 1/4, three-quarters in 1:36 1/4, mile in 2:07 3/4. Driver McDowell was given an ovation after the announcement of time.

Robert J. paced against his own record of 2:01 1/4 made at Terre Haute last week and made the first quarter in 1:30, and expectations ran high; half mile in 1:00 1/4; in the third quarter the stallion Robert J. slowed up, making 1:31 1/4; mile in 2:02 3/4.

Online, the four-year-old pacer, tried to beat his own record of 2:07 1/4, and made a strong, steady pace. The quarters were made in 0:31 1/4, 0:32, 0:31 1/2 and 0:32 1/2, or 2:07 1/2 for the mile. Directly, who beat the two-year-old record, is a California horse, foaled at the Pleasanton stock farm.

The Mining Trouble at Grass Valley.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 20.—A. Schnabel, Superintendent of the Osborn Hill mine, who was forced to leave Grass Valley yesterday, has arrived here. He says the trouble with the miners grew out of a misunderstanding about the noon hour. He found that the miners of the Osborn Hill mine instead of taking their lunch down with them came up for lunch and thus lost time. To remedy this he proposed that they take an hour off for lunch instead of half an hour and to make up time work from seven until six instead of five, the former quitting time. This the miners refused to do. The miners forced him to leave town and then made the engineer ring the bell for the miners at work to come up. As each man appeared he was seized by two or three union miners, rushed off to Grass Valley and made to join the union. Directors of the mine held a meeting here to-day, and W. C. Ralston leaves for the mine to-night with special instructions.

Suit Brought Against a Practical Joker. CINCINNATI, September 20.—The Times star special from Trimble, Tenn., says: Yesterday while Jim Harber and others were sitting in front of Simpson's grocery, Bob Jellow drew a sun glass from his pocket and focused it on Harber's uncovered head. The glass did more than was expected. The concentrated rays did not reach Harber's scalp but suddenly his head was a mass of flames caused by the ignition of bay rum on his hair, having just come from the barber shop. When his head caught fire he started to run but Frank Gordon caught and held him while others extinguished the blaze with hats and handkerchiefs. He would doubtless have killed the joker on the spot had he not been restrained by friends. To-day he brought suit against Jellow for $15,000. Physicians say Harber's head will never be adorned with hair. Jellow is well to do.

A Ferry Boat Crashes into a Slip and Does Great Damage.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 20.—The North Pacific Coast Railway's steamer Sausalito crashed into a new slip at Sausalito again this afternoon at 5 o'clock, inflicting damages to the amount of $20,000. The steamer was going at the rate of fifteen miles an hour with a full head of steam. The big slip was demolished by the force of the crash and wrecked the store-house of the company, twenty feet away. The damage to the boat is $5,000. The restaurant is completely wrecked, as is also the bar and steering gear. When 500 yards from the mouth of the slip Captain Wilson gave the signal to stop, but the steamer maintained its speed. All efforts to stop the boat's machinery were of no avail. For five minutes the machinery kept pushing the steamer further under the apron and tearing the lower part of the boat to splinters. The noise of the collision was heard all over town. Defective machinery was the cause of the accident.

Democrats at Merced.

MERCED, September 20.—A large audience listened to speeches by James H. Budd, W. T. Jeter, W. H. Alford, Democratic nominees respectively for Governor, Lieutenant-Governor and Congressman of the seventh district. Judge J. K. Law, the nominee for the Supreme Bench, presided.

Old Hatch in Business.

CHICAGO, September 23.—B. P. Hutchinson, better known as "Old Hutch," once a famous board of trade plunger, has opened a one-cent cigar store opposite the board of trade, where he once made and lost millions.

From the Orient.

YOKOHAMA, September 20.—Particulars received in regard to the battle at Ping Yang show that the Japanese lost only about eleven officers, wounded and 260 soldiers killed. The Japanese army is marching on Wiju, which it is expected will be reached by the end of September.

Particulars received regarding the battle at Ping Yang show that the Chinese lost 2,000 killed and 14,500 wounded and captured. The fourth part of the Chinese army escaped.

LONDON, September 20.—Dispatches received to-day from Shanghai say the Chinese fleet engaged in the battle fought off the mouth of the Yalu river, consisted of twelve war ships and four torpedo boats. The Japanese fleet was composed of seventeen ships, some of which were small vessels. The Chinese claim to have sunk the Japanese war ships Aburatsubo and Yossina and a Japanese transport, which had been converted into a cruiser and named the Siako.

A private report from Shanghai declares that these vessels were not sunk as the Chinese claim, but retired from action disabled.

It is reported that the Chinese transport Tooman was sunk after she landed the troops, but this is thought to be incorrect. The report that Admiral Ting and Colonel Von Hannekin were seriously wounded seems incorrect, for they have both returned to duty.

Another Hop Warehouse Burns.

SANTA ROSA, September 20.—A large hop-house on R. L. Porterson's place, about three miles from town, was destroyed by fire to-day. The temperature in the drying-room became too high and combustion followed. About one hundred bales were saved with difficulty. The loss will reach $7,000, with no insurance.

Republicans at Tulare.

TULARE, September 20.—Morris M. Estee, the Republican candidate for Governor, addressed a large meeting at Tulare this afternoon discussing State and national issues. Lee Fairchild also spoke.

A Fire at Martinez.

MARTINEZ, Calif., September 20.—A fire broke out in a bakery in Lawless block early this morning consuming it and two other shops. The loss is $5,000, partially insured.

When asked how our hair has retained its color and fullness, we reply, 'By the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor—nothing else.'"

Is a Frog a Fish?

Is a frog a fish? This is the problem which the officials of the Dominion fishery department have recently had to consider. Petitions were forwarded to the department from the inhabitants of Northumberland, Ont., praying for a close season for frogs. A lucrative trade in the shipment of frogs' legs had been done in that county, but it was discovered that the very time when the frogs are spawning is one when the greatest havoc is wrought among them. Possibly a change will be made in the fishery laws so as to embrace frogs. The officers say that in their embryonic stage frogs are certainly fish, but later on when they take an amphibious character.—Halifax Herald.

Dinner Service Worth $100,000.

The silver dinner service which Mrs. J. W. Macdonald took with her in Europe is worth $100,000. Her millionaire husband furnished $75,000 in weight of pure silver and then paid another $115,000 for the work done upon it. The above is, I believe, reckoned as being the most costly silver set now in use in the world.—St. Louis Republic.

Wellington's Greatest Battle.

A hitherto unpublished letter of the Duke of Wellington written to Colonel Wilke, one of the garrison of St. Helena when Napoleon was there, contains the following interesting reference to the duke's greatest battle:

"They used to call me the sepy general. It is due to my having been a sepy general that I won the battle of Waterloo. It taught me where to place men with whom I could trust the honor of England and where to place men who were not so satisfactory. I had troops with me at Waterloo in whose hands the safety and honor of king and country could well be placed. I had numbers of others, some of whom I could not trust at all, some I could barely trust, and others who were not properly trained. It was owing to the fact of my having learned in the sepy wars to place the best of the men in the parts of the field where the greatest courage and bravery were required, and others of less qualifications were not required, that I won the battle of Waterloo."

Disappointed.

"Our hero sat in the corner of the railway compartment devouring his newspaper," read Miss Myrtle Delau from the latest acquisition to her paper cover history.
"Did you devouring what?" asked her father, with sudden interest.
"The newspaper, the book says," replied Myrtle.
"Go on wild yet! O! t'ought 'twor a man ye wor readin about, an now, be the powers, he turns out to be a goat!" —Washington Star.

PEOPLE'S PARTY CONVENTION.

A Full County Ticket Nominated, and the Nominations Counted.

At 10 o'clock yesterday morning the People's party County Convention assembled at the Opera House. There was a large attendance of delegates, there being but few proxies.

R. S. Osburn, Chairman of the County Central Committee, called the convention to order and made appropriate remarks. He then called upon R. C. Moore, Secretary of the Central Committee, to read the list of duly elected delegates, as certified to him from the various precincts. Mr. Moore read the names of delegates, and nominations for temporary chairman were declared in order.

The Rev. Mr. Maynard was placed in nomination and was elected by acclamation. He was introduced by Mr. Osburn and made a rousing speech.

W. H. Noyes was selected as temporary secretary and John Robb temporary sergeant-at-arms.

On motion the chair appointed committees on credentials, order of business and permanent organization and platform and resolutions.

A short recess was taken in order that delegations from the several precincts might select representatives on the several committees, and upon reconvening the committees were named as follows:

Credentials—J. J. Quinn, F. C. Updike, John Pugh, M. Kelly, T. Burns, N. Golden and J. J. Jackson.

Permanent Organization and Order of Business—Wm. Zimmerman, C. Gulling, Rev. Thomas Magill, J. E. Southerland, George Houls, T. A. Reed and H. Whistler.

Platform and Resolutions—R. C. Leeper, Judge Wm. Webster, Dr. W. A. Phillips, O. C. Ross, A. T. Rice, W. Nichols and J. P. Foulks.

The convention then adjourned till 1 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The convention met promptly at 1 o'clock, and the first order of business was the report of the Committee on Credentials, which was read. It had been decided in the committee that no proxies should be admitted except they be held by a duly elected delegate to the convention. This was adopted, rejecting several proxies.

The roll of delegates was called and approved.

The report of the Committee on Permanent Organization and Order of Business was read and adopted. This action made the temporary officers permanent and added the name G. H. Backlund as Assistant Secretary.

A recess was taken to give the Committee on Platform and Resolutions further time to report. Upon reconvening the following was offered and unanimously adopted as the

PLATFORM AND RESOLUTIONS.

Be it resolved that the People's party of Washoe county in convention assembled reaffirm its faith in the principles contained in the Omaha platform. That the convention does endorse the principles contained and declared in the platform of the People's party of the State of Nevada. That it is the purpose and duty of the People's party of Washoe county to keep in line with and by all honorable means promote the reforms sought by the People's party at large. That men only who are possessed of integrity and unwavering honesty should be nominated to office and given public trust.

That the prostitution of the elective franchise and the consequent demoralization of the people by the purchase of votes cannot be too severely reprobated. That the People's party of Washoe county in convention declare that it is the duty of each voter to suppress by any and every lawful means the vile practice of vote purchase at the ensuing November election and all future elections. That purity in politics and purity in the public service are cardinal principles that the party should enforce, and we particularly demand their enforcement by the nominees of this convention.

We declare that the education of the children of the State is a matter of public interest and the public schools and public school fund of the State demand the care of each citizen. We demand that our Senators and Representative in Congress urge the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the fourth (4th) section of the Interstate Commerce Act in Nevada. That our representatives in the Senate and Assembly be and they are instructed to procure such legislation as will make township offices as nearly as may be salaried offices, and the several precincts in the county are requested to demand from nominees for township offices a pledge that they will conform to such legislation by receiving for the term of their election such salary or fees as may be provided by law.

The following gentlemen were selected as the County Central Committee: Franktown—T. A. Reed. Wadsworth—Wm. Nicholls. Verdi—J. E. Southerland. Huffaker—B. A. Cooper. Glendale—O. C. Ross.

Reno—O. H. Perry, Chas. Gulling, H. H. Hogan, J. M. McCormack, B. C. Campbell and J. J. Quinn.

Nominations were declared in order for State Senator:

J. B. McCullough and Wm. Thompson were placed in nomination. The ballot resulted in the selection of the former.

Edward Larity of Verdi, George Frazer of Wadsworth, Dr. H. H. Hogan and H. E. Beck were chosen as the nominees of the convention for Assemblymen.

Some little reluctance was shown by several gentlemen named as candidates for the assembly, and after several short speeches and considerable amusement all withdrew except the gentlemen named above, and two of them insisted on withdrawing but the convention would not hear to it.

It could not be said by anyone that there was any slate as far as the legislative ticket was concerned, for it was a clear case of the office seeking the man. Thompson took his defeat good naturedly and remarked that while Dr. Hogan had at last found a party that he could affiliate with, he (Thompson) had lost his.

The contest for long term Commissioner was one of the most interesting fights during the day. The gentlemen nominated were J. E. Jones, J. J. Quinn, R. H. Kinney and D. W. O'Connor. J. E. Jones proving the winner. Alex Twaddle of Franktown was chosen as the nominee for short term Commissioner.

G. O. McNeese received the nomination for Sheriff.

For Assessor W. H. Noyes and O. H. Perry were placed before the convention and the former was nominated, it being a close race, Mr. Noyes receiving the nomination by only four majority. The convention then adjourned until 6:30 o'clock.

EVENING SESSION.

There was some delay in the re-assembling of the convention. The delegates had become weary and there was an evident lack of interest.

The first order of business was the nominations for County Clerk. Mr. Frank Porter was nominated and there being no further nominations he was declared the nominee by acclamation.

T. V. Julien was nominated for District Attorney, and B. C. Shearer was chosen as the nominee for County Recorder.

D. B. Boyd was nominated by acclamation for County Treasurer.

For County Surveyor considerable merriment was indulged in over the naming of J. P. Foulks of Verdi by Wm. Thompson. Mr. Foulks tried hard to decline, but at each attempt was shouted down by the delegates. The Chairman finally procured order and it was decided to allow Mr. Foulks to decline and pass the nomination, allowing the County Central Committee to fill the vacancy on the ticket.

For Coroner and Public Administrator C. H. Coleman received the nomination by a close shave over the present Coroner, H. P. Brown.

The convention having concluded its business adjourned sine die.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

The Reno delegation met immediately after the convention adjourned and organized for the purpose of nominating township officers.

S. M. Jamison was placed in nomination for Justice of the Peace and selected by acclamation.

The contest of the day was the office of Constable. C. H. Peterson, F. C. Updike, S. T. Harrington, A. Stiner and James Stanaway were named as candidates. Balloting commenced and twenty-two ballots were taken without an election, the candidates showing the same, or nearly the same, strength on each ballot. The delegates became tired, and now and then one would drop out but would return, and the delegation numbered from fifty-three to fifty-seven at each successive vote.

The contest lasted for three hours, when a recess of ten minutes was taken and the candidates agreed that at each ballot after recess the lowest candidate should be dropped until a result should be arrived at. This was carried out, and after four ballots were taken H. C. Peterson was declared the nominee.

U. S. COURT.

The Story of Informer Thompson—Rich and Easy Testimony—The Burning of Bridges.

The last witness placed on the stand by the Government yesterday was Thompson, the man who turned State's evidence. He said he had attended a meeting of the A. R. U. and a vote was taken to see whether the men would strike. It was carried and unanimously decided not to allow Pullmans to run. Didn't hear any "yes." March made the motion; don't know who seconded it. Mr. Wallace put the motion. A mediation committee was appointed, Howard, March, Cleary, Stevens and one other was on the committee. Remained until the meeting adjourned. Witness named a number of persons who were present, including those indicted. Cleary helped take the cars off and did the switching. Kaplan and himself assisted. Kaplan uncoiled some stay chains. Witness handled the switch engine and side-tracked the cars. Did not recollect any one else. March was walking about. Didn't see Howard doing anything.

The following telegram was said to have been read at a meeting of the A. R. U.

CHICAGO, June 26.—C. E. Kaplan, Carlin; "Boycott on Pullman cars today. Be governed accordingly. By order of the convention."

"E. V. Debs."

Thompson, referred to above, made an alleged confession this morning. He implicated Howard deeply in the bridge burning escapade, but was unable to return the steady glance that Howard gave him. In fact he looked decidedly sheepish. His testimony was as follows: On July 11 Sam Howard asked me to go and burn bridges east of Carlin; said he would get Pat Martin to go with me; said we had better wear old clothes; gave me package containing giant powder. Howard left, telling us to meet him at Jones' house; we went up and found Howard; all then went to Howard's house, where we left some of our clothing. We then went to the bridge, taking coal oil. Howard took one bottle of coal oil and Martin took one. I took the giant powder. Howard proposed to use powder to blow rocks down on the track. I told him we could not blow rocks down on the track so did not use it; and made up our minds to burn bridges; put one stick of powder on track three or four miles east of Carlin. I placed it on the track at Howard's suggestion, with a cap in it. We came back and fired bridge, pouring oil on timbers. Martin and I set the fire, while Howard watched. This bridge didn't burn; then all went to next bridge and set fire to it. Set fire same as on first one; then bridge burned. Then went to third bridge and fired it. It burned. All this was to delay trains. Waited ten minutes to see if it was going to burn, and then started for home. Howard told me to hide the giant powder. I hid it about 150 feet south of my lodgings in the sagebrush.

Cross examined: Admitted that counsel was employed to defend witness and Martin in Carlin. Mr. Massey and Wren were employed. Mr. Massey had asked for full confidence. Witness did not tell any of this confession to his attorney. First spoke to Asher about making confession. I told him I was in a pretty hard fix. He said I could get out of it by telling all I knew and I would get clear or with a light punishment. I talked with Attorney Dennis and told him all I knew. No one else was present. Talked afterward with Dennis and Farrington; made a confession in writing; Farrington, Dennis and Palmer were present. Mr. Palmer came in late; think it was read over in his presence. Palmer swore witness to confession. After this was invited to have a conference with Attorneys Wren and Massey. Did not remember telling counsel that he knew anything about it. Admitted that he did not tell counsel retained to defend him at that time that he had at that time made any confession. Attended meetings of the A. R. U. after making alleged confession; did not attend at instigation of prosecution; went just to pass the time away. Asher didn't advise him to mingle with boys and learn what he could; did not try to induce Martin to make a confession; attended meeting of the A. R. U. June 29th; meeting was called to discuss the proposition of striking. Message from Debs was read; vote taken to strike; did not remember March and Cleary making speech against interfering with No. 4; did not hear March say: "Now boys I am going to the telegraph office to get clearance orders for No. 4, so she can go on." (Here the witness became sulky under Attorney Wren's questions.) Howard asked him at about 10 o'clock in the evening to go with him and burn the bridges, while the other boys would do something else. Witness admitted having seen a copy of the testimony he had given before the Commissioners at Carlin; read it three days ago; was given him by Attorney Farrington; read part of it over again yesterday. Mr. Asher told him what he had sworn to yesterday. He had been told in Attorney Jones' office what the other witnesses had testified to; supposed they were telling other witnesses what had been testified in court. Asher and witness were in State House grounds last night talking over the case; no one else with them. Did not ask Mr. Harris in whose saloon he was arrested to swear that he was in the saloon when bridges were burned. Did not ask him to do so when engines were disabled. Have had no understanding with counsel that case against him would be dismissed. Counsel for prosecution have not promised to intercede with Court to have Judge impose a light fine. Had talked over the case with Lemmon something less than ten times. Lemmon has been in employ of S. P.; didn't know whether he was employed in collecting evidence or not. Witness is at present stopping at the Arlington Hotel. Does not know who is paying his expenses; doesn't know who has paid any of his expenses. The giant powder was put on the track to scare someone; witness did not propose to Cummings to rob S. P. trains; says Howard and Cummings proposed the thing to him, and further proposed to let prisoners out of county jail, Embezzler Melville of San Francisco being one of the prisoners. The object was to rob the prisoners.—Tribune.

A Correction.

Mrs. Charles Roberts desires to state that the newspaper reports concerning the death of her sister, Miss Orla Corrado, are without foundation. Her sister has been ill for several months and living at Carson with her parents. Her death was not from suicide, but from her sickness. Mrs. Roberts feels that the reports should be contradicted, as they are not true about her dead sister.

MYSTERIES OF MEDICINE.

Do. In's Know What Drugs Will Do, but Not Why They Do It.

"When a person takes a dose of medicine," said a doctor, "he never stops to consider what a wonderful provider nature is. When you consider that we are able to give drugs which will go through the entire system without having any effect upon any part or organ until it comes perhaps to some nerve upon which it exerts all its force, it is indeed a miracle of the most wonderful kind. We don't know why it does it, but we know what it does. The progress in medicine has been wonderful. By studying the specific effects of drugs have been discovered, so that they can be given with specific results. Medicine is gradually emerging from the dark valley of guess-work into the bright sun-light of science."

"A modern physician does not make a mixture of seven or eight drugs, hoping that one of them will produce the effect desired. He does not take chances upon striking a remedy one in a million. He knows just what drug will produce the results he wants, and he prescribes that. I attended a man the other day who had not been sick for 20 or 30 years. I went into his room, and after observing his symptoms asked for half a glass of water, into which I dropped a small pellet, a triturate. The old man looked at me after I had given him a dose of it and then smiled."

"Well, doctor," he said, "you treated me for this complaint when I was sick many years ago, and I must say the remembrance of the taste of the medicine you gave me then is still vivid. I don't think that a person could have mixed a more horrible concoction than that was. Now you treat me for the same disease, and the drug is almost tasteless. How do you account for that?"

"Progress," I replied, "and progress it is! Every day increases our knowledge of drugs and our power to alleviate suffering and save human life."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

ST. NGE HILL THIS.

A Bicycle Will Not Run Down It, but Goes Up Last.

"There is a hill in Ulster county that bicyclists find no difficulty in ascending on their wheels, but which their machines won't descend by their own gravity," said a New York wheelman. "This mysterious hill is the last one of the numerous hills on the route between Lake Mohonk and the Hudson river."

The moment he takes his feet off the pedals to let the machine toboggan down by force of gravity it slows up and begins to wobble, and if its rider doesn't brace up and take it in hand and foot again it will topple over and tumble him in the ditch. He has to work the wheel for all he is worth to get it down the hill. On the contrary, the wheel will mount the hill with less effort on the part of the wheelman to propel it than it requires ordinarily to move it along on the level.

The theory is that there must be a big mass of magnetic ore under the surface near the top of the hill which influences the action of the bicycles. However that may be, the fact exists that here is a hill that a bicycle won't run down of its own gravity, and which the wheelman can mount as easily, if not more easily, than he can ride the level road.—New York Sun.

Eggs and Microbes.

Dr. McClintock of the University of Michigan has performed experiments which indicate that eggs may become infected with microbes before they are laid. A healthy hen, after repeated washings in sterilized solutions, was placed in a sterilized cage. As soon as possible after being laid a portion of her eggs were placed in sterilized cotton and then in an incubator. All these eggs decayed and swarmed with bacteria. The remaining eggs were taken as soon as laid, and cultures were made from their contents. Some of these cultures tubes developed; others remained sterile. After some days the hen was killed, and with proper aseptic precautions culture tubes were inoculated from various portions of the ovivert. Most of these tubes developed. It would thus seem probable that the putrefactive bacteria entered the egg in its p's up down the ovivert and before the shell was formed.

What He Needed.

The man was melancholy, and when he called on the doctor for advice that artist thought he had his man sired up on the first try. He told the doctor his symptoms, and the doctor asked a lot of incidental questions.

"How long have you been here?" inquired the physician after finishing up the regular list.

"Much longer than I have wanted to be," replied the patient wearily.

"That's it, I thought so," exclaimed the doctor brightly. "What you need is a change of scene."

The patient threw up his hands as if to ward off a blow.

"Oh, doctor," he heaved, "I belong to a theatrical company playing a repertory of five act plays."—Detroit Free Press.

He Was Tender.

"Young Mr. Soffy paralyzed Dr. Simton when he went to be vaccinated," observed Gaswell to Dukane.

"How was that?"

"He asked the doctor to put him under the influence of anesthetics."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

A MYSTERY SOLVED.

ONLY A STRAW IN THE PATHWAY OF THE AVALANCHE.

Loss of the Joe Haines Party—Twenty-three Men, Ninety Horses and Mules, With $30,000 Worth of Goods, Wiped Out on the New Route Over the Mountains.

The route was from Marysville along the right bank of the Yuba river, over the Sierra Nevada mountains and down to Washoe City and Gold Hill, a haul of nearly 200 miles. Except in the dead of winter there were always freighters going and coming. There had been talk of a cutoff route over the mountains—a route which would save many miles of heavy hauling and of unloading and re-loading the great wagons—but the freighters still stuck to the old trail.
Every mile of it was rough and rugged, and many miles of it dangerous to man and horse as well as vehicle, but there might be more danger in the new route.

In the spring of 1893 word was sent out that Captain Joe Haines was leading his 14 wagons for the Gold Hill country and would be the first to try the cutoff. Some men slyly sought their heads and recalled the stories of emigrants lost in the grim Sierras; others applauded the captain's venture and wished him good luck. Six heavy horses or mules to a wagon, 14 drivers, two bosses, two cooks, five men giving their services free to get out to the Nevada mines. Twenty-three men and 90 head of live stock, and the value of the goods in the wagons was $30,000.

One spring day the caravan took the cutoff. Word came back from its head every day until it left the trail leading up to the pass through which the railroad track afterward took its way. At a certain point 18 miles short of the head in the trail the caravan turned sharp to the east to try the cutoff route.
A trapper saw the wagons among the foothills, and Indian hunters saw them two days later. After that no man saw them and lived to tell of it. Days and weeks passed by, and the weeks had run into months before it came to be generally believed that the Haines outfit had met with a disaster. That never a man had returned to Marysville and never a man had reached the eastern slope meant more than disaster. It meant a terrible tragedy.

One searching party followed the wagons into the foothills and lost all trace of them and another tracked them up the valley and down toward them, but at a certain point time had obliterated all further traces. Winter came, and they were forgotten. Spring returned, and the Haines and Indians sent out repeated parties beyond them. Then the rumor came that Captain Haines had been seen. His destination, but not a word more to Marysville. It was wanting then, and people scarcely thought of it, but a year or so later in another year all was forgotten, save perhaps by the shippers who had no return and were hoping against hope.

Two, three, five, ten years passed away. Old men died; boys grew to manhood. The railroad came, and the wagons disappeared from the trail. One summer's day a hunter who had become separated from his companions sat down on a rock in the heart of the mountain range to rest. To the west of him there was only a narrow trail; to the east and north there was more room.
As the hunter rested he scanned the hillsides to the east and north. The position of the hunters of the trail. One time the queer configuration of the slopes—a dozen signs gave him to understand, for he was something of a geologist, that the spot was not as nature left it. He clambered up the northern slope and uttered an "Ah!" of surprise.
Once upon a time the ground below him had been a valley rich in grass and flowers.

It was a narrow, tortuous valley not over 10 rods wide—a valley connecting two larger valleys. To the east a mountain reared its head 8,000 feet high—a mountain of many mountains. Two thousand feet above him had been the starting point of a road. Millions of tons of earth and rock had been set in motion by the rolling over of a stone which might not have weighed a hundred pounds. The discharge of a rifle, the neigh of a horse, the shout of a man, even the foot of a bird resting after a flight, might have caused the avalanche after a long spell of wet weather. It had rushed down into that narrow valley to fill it up as dirt fills a ditch, to bury the green grass and the tender violets, 15, 20, 30 feet deep. The rush, and the roar, and the crash must have been terrific.

The man looked and descended to the trail. To him it was only a point of geology. With his own eyes he had seen one of the tremendous changes nature is constantly making in the mountains.
Ah, what's this? He has been absent less than half an hour, and yet he finding that time the waters from a hidden spring have gushed forth from the hillside and formed a creek, which is twisting and turning along the trail. The hunter kneels down to drink, and his eyes rest upon a rusty gun barrel. As he pulls it out of the soil he sees the hoof of a horse with a shoe yet firmly holding to it.

Two hours later two men are digging away at the bank on each side of the spring. They find the bones of a horse, the skeleton of a man, the ironwork of a wagon. They solve the mystery surrounding the fate of the long lost Haines party. Dead, every man and horse—dead since the night they camped in that mountain cove and the awful avalanche came rushing down to destroy everything in its path! Of what use for others to dig? Men must die, and men must be buried. They were buried so deep that trees took root and threw out great branches above them as they slept.
Twenty-three men, 90 horses and mules, 14 wagons, $30,000 worth of cargo—only a straw in the pathway of the avalanche.—Detroit Free Press.

New Force Boys' Railroad Plan
Over the Cliff

The Hardy little New Force boys in quite well known in a way, but few people know what remarkable courage and sagacity he has. When the Indian war swept the New Force country, the Indians gathered about 5,000 horses into a valley that flouted on the steep bluffs of the Columbia river, and there, with the great white mountains at their back, prepared to make their last desperate stand.

In the battle that followed they were defeated, and the small fraction of them that remained, unslain put to flight.
The horses, shut in by the steep mountains on the one side and the steep river bluff on the other, had to be left behind.

When the battle had closed, the soldiers of the volunteers (for only a part were regulars) made a rush for the horses, but they could not lay hands on one of them on approach them.

And now for the first time it was noticed that they were under a boy herder.
The boy was unarmed, entirely naked and as red as copper.

The boy had no bridle, but wove his hands into the mane, and thus guided his black horse at will at the head of the herd.

The volunteers dropped on their knees here and there, and the edge of the circle and began to fire at the boy. At last a bullet struck him. His body flew high into the air and then fell and rolled in the dust.

The horses now divided as they came by. Their nostrils were distended at the smell of blood, and their eyes ablaze at the sight of their young keeper in the dust.

On the second round, after the boy fell, the black leader seemed to run sideways, his eyes fastened to his little dead master until they looked frightful from under the black mane.

He plunged on around and came to the very edge of the beetling basalt bluff. Then there was a slight as if a sculptured image of a horse poised in mid-air, and a dark, wild cry, such as a heron makes, but louder—a cry indescribable—that filled the valley.

Then there was a crash, and when they looked back on black statue was gone.
From a point on the bluff, over the body and the falling water went a bullet.

And then the whole 3,000 of the herd fell and was left to the elements, and the story of the boy herder, the dead—a young Indian.

PORTLAND'S SMALLEST HOUSE.

Three Rooms Granted Into Space Not Larger Than One.

For upward of 10 years Portland has had within its corporate limits one of the smallest dwelling houses in this broad land of ours. At first glance it might be mistaken for a playhouse, as it stands alone in the corner of the block on Northrup street, between Nineteenth and Twentieth.

The place has a history, and many of Portland's residents have made themselves familiar with it by perusal of inquiry and investigation. About 10 years ago, so the story goes, a seafaring man happened in the northwest portion of the city before street had been opened and graded, and, struck by the beauty of the surrounding, determined to build himself an abode in which to pass his declining years.

The builder endeavored to make his home as much like ships' quarters as possible, and in this he succeeded admirably. The house contains three rooms—bedroom, dining room and bedroom—and occupies a patch of ground about 10 by 12 feet. It stands about 9 feet in height. The kitchen is just large enough to accommodate a cook stove and table, and the dining room is sufficiently large to allow two persons to move about. The parlor and bedroom combined contains a couch, two chairs and a table and resembles the stateroom of an ocean steamer. The bed, or bath, is located three feet from the ground, and is reached by a set of stairs and a ladder from view by lanterns. The opposite side of the room is a tiny of chimney is exposed to view, and the panel itself may be used as a table or writing shelf.—Portland Telegram.

May Outshine Her Mother.

The little daughter of Harriet A.
Ketchum, the late Iowa soapress, is said to already display marked artistic ability. Unlike her mother, however, her sensitive nature finds its best expression in music rather than clay and marble. This little girl it was who was born to Mrs. Ketchum shortly after the completion of the famous statue of the "Patriot" in Rome, and who thus has every right to share in her mother's love of art. Her name is, romantically enough, Roma Beatrice, and it was her small fingers that unveiled the "Patriot" at the World's fair last year, the loyal Iowans having loaned it to adorn their state building. Mrs. Ketchum's last and largest achievement—a magnificent design for a soldiers' monument, completed just before her death in 1890—is one of the "sights" of Burlington, Ia.

The Boy Agassiz.

Louis Agassiz was so expert a fisherman when a little boy he could catch them in his hand, fascinating them first by strange motions of his fingers. He kept a number of pet fish in a stone basin behind his father's house and was clever at them, field mice and all sorts of little animals and insects. He was an expert little Cobbler and cooper, could make water-tight barrels as well as a barrel, and manufactured pretty shoes for his mother's dolls.—Chicago Inter Ocean.
